

Gust Grabs DC-3 Lands It On Street

GREENWICH, Conn. (UP)—A mighty gust of wind picked up a private DC-3 twin-engine plane carrying six persons as it was trying to land at an airport last night, hurled it half a mile through the air and slammed it down in a residential street, barely missing a hospital.

The pilot and co-pilot were slightly injured, but the four passengers were not hurt. The plane was heavily damaged. The crash landing caused no property damage.

B.C. Revenue Drops

Treasury In Trouble

PREMIER BENNETT
... first for Socreds

Provincial government revenues are down, down, down...

For the first time since Social Credit came to power in August, 1952, the provincial treasury is in trouble.

The exact seriousness of the situation won't be known until the next session of the legislature, scheduled to start in mid-January, although there seems little doubt that all government bills will be paid.

SURPLUS NEEDED

It is almost certain that Premier Bennett, acting as minister of finance, will have to dip into the government's surplus if he is to meet these bills, however.

Reliable informants report that sales tax revenues have nose-dived and that forestry revenues—which usually play a big part in the B.C. economy—are down by as much as 35 to 40 per cent.

The fact that revenues are down is believed to be one of the major reasons behind the Social Credit attack on Ottawa's tight money policies.

PURCHASES SLOW

Spokesmen say that the tight money situation has caused a slow-down in purchases resulting in a cut in the 5 per cent sales tax revenues which bring in close to $30,000,000 every year.

The financial troubles are not common to B.C.

In Alberta, the provincial budget this year has gone into the red for the first time since Social Credit was elected in 1935.

Charge Stands

Laws Not Silly

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Some of those ridiculous old laws still on the provincial statutes may not be so silly after all.

Magistrate George L. Cassidy made it clear Friday he intends to find out. He postponed for one week a case against police commissioner A. W. Mark, charged with failing to attend church on a recent Sunday.

The charge is laid under an English Sunday Observance Act written in 1876 and adopted by British Columbia 99 years ago. Mr. Mark agreed to be charged by John MacLean, a reporter.

BLEMISH

But in police court Friday, Mr. MacLean asked permission to withdraw the charge. He'd had some second thoughts on the matter.

He wanted it withdrawn because there was not sufficient evidence.

"Surely that is for me to decide," Mr. Cassidy said.

"I didn't realize the serious implications," Mr. MacLean continued. "He didn't want Mr. Mark to have a blemish on his record."

PRINCE PHILIP
... key to space age

What the Devil Is It? Find Out, Says Philip

UPPINGHAM, England (AP)—Prince Philip told the boys of Uppingham School Friday they'd better learn something about science if they want to get along in the new space age.

"Everybody has got to understand a little about science or he can't understand what the hell goes on around him in the world," he said.

"Fifty years ago it didn't matter whether the majority of citizens knew a damn thing about science because they were taken about by horses. They had gas lamps which functioned more or less, and everything just happened naturally.

"Now you will find that unless you know at least something about science you won't get into the House of Commons."

The remark brought a roar of laughter from the assembled youngsters who had just watched Philip open a new school building housing scientific laboratories. Philip said all school boys should get a scientific ground, whatever profession they aspire to.

"It's quite ridiculous to assume that because you twiddle about with test tubes you shouldn't know about painting, or be able to appreciate music or history."

Months of hard work and waiting ended for two young Portuguese immigrants yesterday.

Several months ago, John Moniz Jalavao and his friend Jose De Moniz were married by proxy to the girls they left behind in Portugal when they came to Canada in 1956.

Since then they have worked hard to save their brides' plane fares.

FOG WRECKED PLANS

The fares were paid and great plans to welcome the brides were made. Then the fog settled over Vancouver and Victoria airports, throwing all plans into a state of complete disorder.

They knew the girls had left Portugal and were en route. Then TCA lost touch and tracers failed to find them.

So, when Mary Angelina De Moniz and Theresa Demelo Jalavao arrived at Patricia Bay Airport yesterday evening, they weren't met by the welcome they hoped for.

CONFUSED BRIDES

Instead, TCA made hurried phone calls to locate the husbands while the two confused brides, who do not speak English, stood waiting in the puzzling world of a foreign airport.

Finally, about 10 p.m. last night, the four newlyweds got together for the champagne and wedding cake celebration. The wedding cake had been ready for days, like the husbands, waiting for the fog to lift.

HOUSE OF JOY

The little house on Benvenuto Road near the Butchart Gardens celebrated a double wedding last night, about eight months after the wedding took place.

NO ONE CAN DENY

He warned however, "that no one can deny that in the United States and other free countries, and in Canada, there has been a levelling off during the last year and a half."

This would, he said, establish a "new plateau, from which, as far as Canada is concerned, we will progress to greater heights of economic progress than ever before."

Discussing the world situation, the prime minister said Russian scientific and military advances "would be met by a pooling of Western efforts."

He said he hoped the NATO conference at Paris next month, which he plans to attend, "will act in a spirit of dedicated unity to plan for new horizons for these nations—scientifically, politically and economically."

'We'll Kill' Terrorists Tell World

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—EOKA terrorists warned Friday they will kill anyone who helps "the tyrannical rulers" of Cyprus and pledged a continued fight to free the island from British control.

'Stop Moping, Provide Jobs'

OTTAWA (BUP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker last night criticized Canadians who "join in a chorus of gloom" over predicted winter unemployment and called for a "national effort" to achieve a solution.

The prime minister said the percentage of the working force unemployed was less today than in 1954 and 1955, when it amounted to 6.9 and went as high as 9.5 per cent.

NO ONE CAN DENY

He warned however, "that no one can deny that in the United States and other free countries, and in Canada, there has been a levelling off during the last year and a half."

This would, he said, establish a "new plateau, from which, as far as Canada is concerned, we will progress to greater heights of economic progress than ever before."

He said he hoped the NATO conference at Paris next month, which he plans to attend, "will act in a spirit of dedicated unity to plan for new horizons for these nations—scientifically, politically and economically."

Search Gets Underway Over Darkened Pacific

HONOLULU (UP)—A Pan American Airways stratoscruiser with 44 persons aboard was about two hours overdue here from San Francisco last night, touching off a needle-in-a-haystack search of the darkened Pacific.

The plane carried 36 passengers and eight crewmen. It had not been heard from for hours after it radioed in a routine manner that the point of no return had been reached. This point is the half-way mark on the long flight.

The coast guard sent an amphibious plane up to search for the missing aircraft and called in crews to man two cutters to be sent on the route the plane should have travelled.

SUBS ALERTED

The navy submarines Cushman and Carbonaro were the closest vessels to the point where the plane was last reported and were directed to the search.

In addition, all ships at Pearl Harbor were ordered to turn on their lights in case the plane was lost without radio and searching for the island.

MORNING FLIGHT

The plane was piloted by Capt. George H. Brown and left San Francisco at 11:30 a.m. (PST) on the 2,400-mile flight. It was 1,160 miles from Honolulu when last heard from.

Pan-American said the plane had enough fuel aboard to last until 12:47 a.m. (PST).

The stratoscruiser is a Boeing double-decked transport with four engines—the same type Pan-American plane that made a successful ditching in the Pacific halfway between Honolulu and San Francisco last year.

Pan-American pointed out it was possible that the plane had merely suffered a radio failure, but all precautions were being taken after the aircraft failed to arrive at the scheduled time.

DEFENCE SECRETARY
NEIL H. McELROY

U.S. Army Joins Race Into Space

WASHINGTON (UP)—Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy, striving to overtake Russia's Sputniks, ordered the U.S. army yesterday to join the navy in an all-American race to launch an earth satellite as soon as possible.

He announced that the army would use its multi-stage Jupiter-C rocket, which has already soared more than 600 miles into space, in a "supplemental" effort to put an artificial moon in orbit.

CONFIDENT

The army, which has had an earth satellite gathering dust for six months, said it was "confident" it could carry out the assignment.

In a brief statement which concealed the satisfaction obviously shared by all at the army's Redstone arsenal missile and rocket centre at Huntsville, Ala., Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, head of the army ballistic missile agency, said:

"We appreciate the opportunity to undertake this challenging assignment and are confident of our ability to carry it out."

NAVY SURPRISED

McElroy's order apparently came as a surprise to officials of the navy's Project Vanguard, who until now had sole charge of the U.S. satellite-launching program. One official said somebody obviously thought "we were not able to do the job."

The order to the army came shortly after Dr. John P. Hagen, chief of Project Vanguard, told a news conference he would not be surprised if Russia launched a satellite a month for the next year.

Critics Tell Eisenhower:

'Don't Sugar Rocket Pill'

SEN. JOHN KENNEDY
... we can take it

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) last night called on President Eisenhower to tell the people all "harsh facts we must face and not just some of them" about the U.S. lag in rocket and arms development.

In a speech here Kennedy charged the president in his address to the nation Thursday night did not lay the situation on the line.

He said "I am certain that everyone here would join me in assuring the president that as Democrats and Americans we stand ready to face whatever harsh facts must be faced."

"I think, therefore, that we have a right to ask the president to tell us all of the harsh facts we must face, and not just some of them."

MAJ. A. P. SEVERSKY
... death on way

NEW YORK (UP)—Maj. Alexander P. Severaky, Russian-born aviation expert, designer and consultant to the U.S. Air Force, commented last night on President Eisenhower's "chintz" speech.

Severaky told a television audience that within one year "Russia will have overwhelming superiority in bombers with a capacity to deliver atomic bombs."

"If something is not done... within three years one out of every three Americans listening to this program will not be alive," Severaky said.

"President Eisenhower talked to the nation like a father to his children while their house is on fire," he said. "But instead of calling the fire brigade, he showed them a garden hose he thought he could use to fight the fire."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

It is enlightening to see yourself from the viewpoint of an intelligent foreigner.

The "report on Canada" in Atlantic Monthly makes a pleasant change from the jaundiced and flippant treatment this country gets in Time.

Time, the only foreign magazine which regularly reports Canadian news to Canadians, has long waged a propaganda campaign aimed to inspire contempt for Britain and the Commonwealth. Its news has been slanted and its adjectives carefully chosen for that purpose, and for other purposes which the publishers of Time look upon as worthy.

After the hot, high-pres-anced interpretive reporting of the Atlantic is like a current of air in a smoke-filled room.

Because the general excellence of its material, the Atlantic may be forgiven for such errors as calling the CCF "the Canadian Co-operative Federal party."

Sample glimpses of the Canadian political scene, as observed by the Atlantic: "Liberal policy encouraged immigrants from everywhere except from the United Kingdom. Capital flowed in, but it came in an almost uncontrollable flood from the United States."

The Quota Curtain

"In season and out, the Conservatives preached more trade with Britain and less with the United States. Why? Because the United States persisted in restricting imports from Canada. It put quotas on Canadian cattle, duties on Canadian wheat, zinc and copper. It wanted Canadian gas but spurned Canadian oil. It wanted Canadian iron ore but rejected Canadian steel products."

"In the past decade, American industry has been much more aware of the opportunities in Canada, particularly in resources development, than the Canadians. Some extractive industries have been granted tax concessions by Washington beyond anything Canadians enjoyed."

"The phrase 'American 10-cent dollars' came into usage almost a decade ago in connection with American purchases of vast Canadian oil and gas reservations. The Conservatives have said that Canadian resources should be owned, developed and controlled by Canadians."

"In recent months, several bitter debates in the House of Commons had anti-American overtones. Worst was the debate over the Trans-Canada pipeline. This was a $400,000,000 Clint Murchison promotion to move Alberta gas to Ontario and Quebec through a 2,600-mile, 34-inch pipeline. The Texans sold the Liberal government on the feasibility of the line, then defaulted on promises to proceed with it."

John D. Made Sense

Suez, wheat surplus, rigid obedience to professional economists, pensions, Liberal overconfidence and sluggish party organization. Diefenbaker's vigorous attack, all helped beat the Liberals.

Unfortunately, the Atlantic says, Mr. Diefenbaker led a weak slate of candidates, and had difficulty finding able men to fill his cabinet.

"But to the Canadian people, Diefenbaker made sense in a quiet sort of way. They had grown a little weary of the Liberal world-savers, more than a little bored with Liberal preoccupation with the United Nations, and dissatisfied with the seeming lack of vigor with which Ottawa rebuked Washington for wheat giveaways and the like."

Canada remains the friend of the United States, but under Conservative government she will be a friend with a mind of her own. So the Atlantic report indicates.

There may be errors in this summing up, but at least it is clear, honest and free from phony attempts at smartness. These things are more than you can say of some publications.

Around Town

Something for Everyone

Something for every member of the family is the boast of the women arranging the Solarium Junior League Christmas carnival to be held Nov. 16.

The carnival in the Bay Street Armory will feature a baby show, multi show, fashion show, folk dancing, stalls selling many types of articles, and games for the men.

The plans will allow baby brother or sister to compete for prizes, the family mongrel to try for a prize, mother to "oh" and "ah" at evening gowns and furs, all the family to shop early for Christmas gifts and father to watch fashion models, folk dancers and play games of chance.

The carnival, largest to be put on the Junior League, will start at 2 p.m. when Mrs. Frank Ross, wife of the lieutenant-governor, conducts opening ceremonies. The show will continue until 10 p.m.

Hunter trials and a western horse show will be held at the Victoria Riding Academy grounds at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Some of the best jumping horses and riders in B.C. are expected to compete in the hunter trials which will take place on a course covering 50 acres.

The course will present every obstacle that would be found on the average English hunting course—stone fences, ditches, brush fences and high wooded fences.

The western event will feature a new competition event, the keyhole race, being held for the first time in Canada.

The public will be able to watch the trials and show from their cars.

First Passengers on Last Trip

Last run of the Nelson ferry this week made a nostalgic trip for Victoria couple Mr. and Mrs. Harry Amas, who were first passengers on Nelson's first ferry when it was put into service 44 years ago. Here they are pic-

New Span Opened

NELSON (CP)—The new $4,000,000 bridge crossing the west arm of Kootenay Lake at Nelson was opened Thursday afternoon as a beaming Premier Bennett cut a broad green ribbon in front of toll gates at the southern approach.

Hundreds of people stood on the sidelines in the frost-tinged sunshine to watch the ceremonies.

Then the cavalcade carrying the premier, three of his cabinet ministers, city council members, and hundreds of private cars crawled across the span, led by brightly tarantined pipers and drummers of the Kootenay Klitte Band.

Highways Minister P. A. Gallard, who conducted ceremonies from the official platform adjacent to the gates, called the bridge "an imposing and important structure."

"The government, without promises and fanfare, has recognized the importance of this part of the country by building this bridge."

New Radio Link 'Opens' Interior

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—A dream of the north country—quick and cheap communication with the outside world—is about to come true.

Robert N. Doble, chief communications officer of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, has announced that tests of the PGE microwave radio system are about to begin.

The $1,430,000 network, longest of its kind in the world, will be the nerve centre of communications in interior British Columbia.

Stretching for 640 miles from Clinton to Fort St. John, the line will have a capacity for 120 simultaneous conversations.

Circuits will be leased to telegraph and telephone companies and television may be piped as far north as the Peace River district.

Ninety walkie-talkie sets can be hooked onto the system from scoters and bud cars. Train operators will no longer have to worry about unknown perils ahead of them. Information gathered on the spot will be available to them in all weathers.

Capt. Walter Tucker (R-Rosthern) charged the government with ignoring an election "promise" to increase veterans' disability pensions.

Veterans Minister Brooks denied such a promise was made, and said those pensions will be reviewed next session.

Trade Minister Churchill said no further Canadian wheat board payment, beyond the delivery payment, is expected on Prairie oats in the 1956-57 pool. Acting Immigration Minister Fulton said Canada will admit 700 Hungarian refugees now in Yugoslavia as a humanitarian move.

The bill, which will raise Bell's capital to $1,000,000,000, was given second reading without a vote and referred to the committee on railways, canals and telegraphs. It has already been approved by the Senate.

W. H. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) called for a joint committee of the Senate and Commons "to inquire into the activities and effects of public service corporations which are monopolies in this country."

G. H. Castleden (CCF-Yorkton) said he suspected the reason behind the bill was "a plan to get control of a much larger field of communications."

Unreasonable Request

CONSIDERING that the cost of education arrives in the form of a tax bill supported by statute and quite beyond the power of the taxpayers to change in any particular, the request of the local teachers' association for approximately 18 per cent increase in the salary schedule, with sabbatical leave, medical service coverage and other side benefits is likely to strike more than the chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board as "staggering." If the sabbatical leave request is to be taken literally and teachers given one year off in seven with pay, the 18 per cent, of course, would not cover it. The express salary increases sought range from $350 to $1,650 a year per individual in a graded scale.

The association has not helped matters by dragging in the Russian success with scientific development. So far as taxpayers in the Greater Victoria area are concerned, the issue of teaching remuneration cannot be divorced from their own ability to pay. Already school costs in this region occupy a top-heavy position in municipal budgets that is giving cause for concern. To increase this outlay by almost one-fifth, on a straight salary basis without side benefits, would seem to be a hurdle higher than Victoria or any of its municipal neighbors could surmount without wholesale assistance from the Province. Nor is there any evidence whatever that the government would or could supply it.

It may develop that the association is asking for more than its members expect to receive after negotiations which have begun now. One cannot find in the cost-of-living index or anywhere else, however, warrant for such an ambitious demand. Perhaps few people in this area believe that teaching salaries are all that they might be in view of the continuing service to be rendered; but surely the ability to pay must also be taken into account. We have no hesitation in saying that if the school board were to present the municipalities concerned with a combined school budget requiring $553,355 more than the present one by way of the very sharp increases and side benefits sought, there would be wholesale and effective objection. In the last analysis, all increase in civic budgets must come out of the taxpayers; and many of them are stretched to their limit now.

Medicine Hat Trick

MEDICINE Hat, Alberta, by what a Toronto newspaper describes as the Medicine Hat Trick, is showing the rest of Canada that by civic determination and the right attitude on the part of drivers, it is possible to travel the streets and highways and stay alive. If the Alberta city can keep the record clean until Nov. 21 it will be able to claim the completion of three consecutive years without a single traffic fatality. Keeping the streets safe for everyone has become a paramount matter of civic pride.

Medicine Hat owes its splendid achievement, unique among Canadian cities in modern times, largely to its daily paper, The News. Three years ago the city police and The News launched a safety campaign which brought into being a branch of the Alberta Council. From then on the trio relentlessly pursued bad drivers, hammered for action at danger points and preached the doctrine of safety to an audience made receptive by constant publicity accorded to the campaign by the press. The results speak for themselves.

What has been accomplished in Medicine Hat should be of interest to Victoria, where there is seldom a month without a traffic fatality, let alone a year or three of them in a row. Victoria is well acquainted with "all-out" safety campaigns, but they have always been spasmodic and have failed to produce lasting results. Safety as a one-week watchword, to be forgotten when the seven-day period devoted to it is succeeded by National Pretzel Week or something of the sort, has been a dismal failure here.

Mr. Fred McGuinness, assistant publisher of the Medicine Hat News, had something important to say on this aspect of public safety campaigns in an address to a convention in Toronto. He emphasized that a job of that kind is never finished. Civic organizations emulating Medicine Hat's example must remember, he said, that "there is no more possibility of improving all the bad habits than of legislating happiness or eradicating sin. What you can do is improve the situation, slowly and painfully. Establish a goal and then get on with the work." But once the job has been taken in hand any let-up can be fatal—literally as well as figuratively.

A Fresh Start

IF not of the same basic urgency—the need to register the first win of the season—tonight's Cougar game holds intense interest for hockey fans nevertheless. It will be a test of the resurgence one hopes made its bow last Wednesday. It should presage expectations that may reasonably be held for the rest of the season.

Professional hockey is a commercial business; one would therefore be entitled to view it with a coldly objective eye. The performers are paid artists who put on entertainment. If they fail to satisfy they can have no complaint, either of criticism or of lack of support. As professionals the players know that, and their plea is only that they may be fairly judged.

One doubts that the Cougars this year have the class to win the championship, although it would be pleasant to be proved wrong. Having said that there is no need for further reservation. The players are capable of providing good entertainment, of serving up hockey played with zest and spirit, of forcing opposing teams to show their best qualities. Supporters like their team to win but even better surely is it that players should contest games keenly and without stint. When that happens there cannot fail to be excitement and thrills.

Bad luck as well as bad play made the opening phases of the season disconcerting to Victoria supporters. Sickness struck hard and club organization was inimical to success. That situation has altered. Physical health has been restored and managerial and coaching duties redistributed so as to relieve undue individual pressures. From the operational standpoint things are now in good shape and team play should reflect the benefit.

There is one other aspect to the Cougars. Unlike other WHL clubs the Victoria club this year is community-owned. That alters the basis from a purely commercial project to one of intimate and sympathetic concern. It stimulates enthusiasm and should add to goodwill and a desire to support the team in bad days as well as good. In their new alignment and restoration of morale may the Cougars go forward now from success to success. We wish them well.

Interpreting the News:

Science Pool Is Doubtful

By PATRICK KEATLEY
North American Newspaper Alliance

LONDON — Informed circles in Great Britain now believe that the Anglo-American atomic pool is a dead letter.

The atomic pool is a plan for sharing secret information on guided missiles and nuclear energy. It was worked out by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister MacMillan during the latter's visit to Washington.

In Britain, with Parliament beginning a new session, MacMillan must get down to practical details. Who will be chosen for the British half of the scientific team? How much will they be able to confide to their American colleagues? And, most important, in which country will the actual sharing of secrets be carried out?

It is privately expressed, but there is a mood of extreme pessimism about the whole project among scientists and government officials here. As for the practical men who would have to carry out the details of this atom pool plan, not one in 10 believes it will come to anything.

The offered two principal reasons for this pessimism: American distrust of British security methods; and British fear of getting the worst of the bargain — giving too many secrets away and not getting enough in return. It has been said that wasteful overlapping in Britain and the United States is costing the two nations something like $100,000,000 a year. The pool plan is supposed to set up a program which would end this duplication. The betting here is that a year from now we'll still be duplicating each other's efforts.

If it is to become a reality, it would require the consent of Congress to amend the Atomic Energy Act of 1954. This is the legislation that embodies the original McMahon Act of 1946, which forbids sharing atomic secrets if such sharing might "endanger the national defence" of the United States.

In fact, there has been no such sharing after the shattering revelation that British scientist Klaus Fuchs, who had worked at Los Alamos, had been betraying British and American nuclear secrets to the Russians. He is still serving his sentence in a British jail. The security leaks cut both ways. The Americans remember the passing of secrets to Russia by Fuchs, Pontecorvo and Nunn May, all trusted members of British nuclear teams. The British, on the other hand, remember the case of the Rosenbergs. If it comes to a showdown, with proposals coming formally before both Congress in Washington and Parliament, it is expected that there will be violent opposition to any pool plan from large numbers of legislators in both countries.

Spindrift

By FRANK KELLEY

MAINTAINING real freshness of interest for residents of Cordova Bay, the monthly publication of that area's Community Club, Spindrift, continues to merit the attention of the dwellers thereabouts. It refreshes memory of what has been enacted for their pleasure, as well as keeping them posted on what is being planned for present and future dates through the efforts of public-spirited folk dwelling in that favored residential community of Greater Victoria.

Nicely presented in make-up, the little paper covers a wide variety of matters pertinent to the community at large, like church services, social happenings, PTA and sport activities, Scout and Guide doings, as well as advertised reminders for the benefit of all readers where they can be catered to by enterprising businesses seeking their patronage.

Most recent issue of Spindrift, dated November, makes worthwhile reading for anyone interested in what is transpiring in Cordova Bay way, plays a big part in the cultivation and encouragement of a genuine community spirit and persistently aims at that objective. Currently, a featured piece by A. Elliott, entitled "Badminton Tournament Great Success" is a good bit of community reporting regarding the better part of a week's display of the favorite sport, the staging of which gave the club's publicity writer the opportunity to acknowledge the excellence exhibited in the competitions and incidentally mention the contributions of hard work carried through by community efforts devoted to acquiring an improved hall, particularly in respect to seating accommodation.

Of a different trend was the clever offering of Sheena, entitled "My Man and Manners." Guide and Brownie News was covered by Winnie Pearson; Scout and Cub News by A. Simpson; and doings of the Community Hall Play Group by Mrs. D. A. Jones. "Swing Your Partners" gives caller Bud Graham the opportunity to confide some things pertaining to posture and appearance, important phases of square-dancing, to exhibitions of which he also invites spectators at no charge.

Chairman of the Hall Building Committee and long-time promoter of the Community Organization, Louis Schmelz promises a full report on the hall building at the next general meeting of the club. Everything was going well in hand, future needs were mentioned and volunteers were asked to contribute their help to finish some bits of work, fairs not being too healthy; while he states an electric clock would be a prized acquisition to the hall.

Vital statistics are not overlooked by Spindrift, its Social Notes by H. Schmelz and M. Elliott presenting an interesting column covering births, engagements, marriages and deaths, as well as holidaying travels by residents of the district. A letter from the municipal clerk congratulates Bay Bantams on winning the provincial championship over the past four years. There are also church reports concerning St. David's Women's Guild, United Church Senior WA and United Junior WA, by E. M. Lewis, M. L. Woodward and G. Gregg respectively.

An interesting contribution is "An Open Letter" by Mrs. Lillian Lister, which is addressed to "Dear Young Friends." It deals with "Postponement" and contains some weighty thoughts in favor of rightful thinking and considered action, instead of putting off until some other time what can advantageously be done at the moment.

Reports from Ottawa

ONE of the new changes in the Old-age pensions law will make it easier for old folks to go south for the winter, or travel, without forfeiting their pension payments. But parliament is doing nothing for those who want to move permanently to some other country.

Socialist and Social Credit MPs have been arguing that parliament should; that over-70 Canadians should not be penalized by loss of their pensions if they move elsewhere.

The climatic unattractiveness of Winnipeg at 40 below, Ottawa at minus 30 or Halifax at zero is just part of the story. Some pensioners want to return to their native countries—Britain, maybe, or Finland or China—to spend their last days. Others want to go to the States to live with sons or daughters who have emigrated. But the government, just like its Liberal predecessor, says that if they leave for good they will lose their pensions.

There's a strong contributory element in the financing of old-age pensions, with special pension taxes being imposed on individual taxpayers, on employers and on goods. Thus it seems rather high handed for the government to deprive aged emigrants of pensions which, in considerable degree, they have bought and paid for.

However, it's axiomatic in the law-making business that you can't frame a law with wide application that will be absolutely fair to everybody. You can even reach a point where by removing one inequity you create two new ones. And that's the trouble with the old-age pensions law.

In addition to increasing monthly pensions from $46 to $55, the new legislation cuts from 20 years to 10 years the time a person must have lived in Canada before being eligible for a pension. It also increases from three months to six months the time in each year that a pensioner may be absent from Canada without having his pension docked.

There is pressure on parliament to abolish both the 10-year residence requirement and the requirement that pensioners have to continue to live in Canada. But if both were abolished, there would be nothing to prevent a 70-year-old American, for example, from coming to Canada, getting a pension, and then going back to the States to draw $55 a month from the Canadian government for the rest of his life. A citizenship stipulation would prevent this. It would also prevent many long-time Canadian residents who never became naturalized from getting pensions to which they had contributed.

These are the considerations which convinced the government that an easing of both residence requirements, rather than their abolition, was in the best interests of the country.

Hardship still results for some oldsters who would be happier and better off if they could go elsewhere to live on their $55 a month. But it must also be admitted that the pensions law was not intended to enable Canadians to live in retirement abroad. It was drafted to provide security against privation in old age for Canadians living in Canada.

Some sort of board to consider individual cases on their merits might ameliorate hardships. But what would that do to the principle of one law for all? It's a situation that has the lawmakers stumped—and so they've settled for a 10-year-six months compromise.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

WHAT baffles me about the modern best seller novels, best sold paperback, motion pictures and even some of the TV and radio dramas, which naturally have to be more circumspect, is their treatment of love. After such brief encounters as I have had with some of these offerings I come away with the uncomfortable feeling that I have stepped in something nasty and now must scrape my shoe.

It was while leafing through an old book published in 1899, "Fisherman's Luck," by the late Rev. Henry van Dyke, that I came on a brief passage that suddenly cleared away the bafflement.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Some of the doctors are saying that Asiatic flu is no worse than a bad cold—and if that relieves your apprehensions it merely means that you haven't had a bad cold lately.

Dentists warn that gnashing the teeth may be harmful. Still, it's probably better than not reading the news of the world at all.

Boasting to the children about how you used to grease the streetcar tracks at Halloween is doubly difficult now that you have to explain what a streetcar was.

"The truth is," wrote the reverend doctor, "that love, considered merely as the preference of one person for another of the opposite sex, is not the greatest thing in the world. It becomes great only when it leads on, as it often does, to heroism, self-sacrifice and fidelity. Its chief value for art, the interpreter, lies not in itself, but in its quickening relation to the other elements of life."

Other elements of life. All we have to do is look around at our families and friends, at the neighbors, at all the people we see, the thousands every day of our lives on buses, streets, shops, to realize that the slightly rancid art of our time, as manifest in novels, dramas, movies, is ignoring the fact of life. Not the facts, but the fact: which is that nearly everybody we know, know about, or can see in our daily lives, is obviously led on, as Van Dyke says, by love's quickening relation to the other elements of life.

What are all these myriads of us doing so industriously, so urgently? Is it hate that has us on the jump? Or disillusionment, or despair? I am too prejudiced to form an opinion, but here it is anyway:

In ninety-nine per cent of us, it is love leading us on—love of wife, of children, family, friends, homes, dogs, books, trees, dreams: the other elements of life.

Testing Period

The Uneasy Kremlin

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
North American Newspaper Alliance

THE next few weeks in the Soviet Union are expected to produce a critical testing period for the Khrushchev "dictatorship of leniency." The test may decide whether Khrushchev can continue to dispose of his rivals by moving them to positions of lesser power, as he has done with Zhukov, or whether he will risk embarking on a Stalin-type of control to be followed eventually by harsher dealing with rivals for power.

One thing is certain: the removal of Zhukov as defence minister and the long period of waiting for the Kremlin hierarchy to give Khrushchev another assignment are new indications of a very serious conflict for power in Russia.

All this is based on Radio Free Europe's analysis of interviews with refugees and travellers from Communist countries, extensive monitoring of Communist broadcasts, and study of Communist publications, documents and news.

Here is a summary of the present situation in Russia and the satellite states, as outlined by John L. Dunning, assistant director of Radio Free Europe; Reuben S. Nathan, a planning officer of RFE; Konrad Kelsen, chief of RFE program review unit, and Nicholas Pentcheff, chief of the Bulgarian desk in New York:

"The fact that Marshal Zhukov was removed before the big parade took place in Moscow in celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the Russian Revolution indicates the seriousness of the crisis in the Kremlin. The parade is always the symbol used by the Communists in Russia of the unity of the party, the armed forces and the people. All party organs in Russia and in the satellite states are now stressing this complete unity."

The present dictatorship in Moscow might be called the Khrushchev dictatorship of leniency, though Khrushchev is not lenient by choice to any rivals for his power. The decision to send Molotov, Malenkov and Kaganovich to distant posts instead of putting them on trial for treason was due to fear of internal opposition rather than any sweet reasonableness or "democracy" on the part of the Khrushchev faction in control.

"It is anticipated that as long as pockets of opposition to following a harsher line against Molotov, Malenkov, Kaganovich and Zhukov exist, Khrushchev will be forced to continue his 'dictatorship of leniency'."

"What must be remembered is that Khrushchev has not in his own person the complete control of the party, of the secret police and the armed forces, that Stalin had."

"Nevertheless, as long as the Communist dictatorship exists in Moscow, whether under Stalin-type control or today's uneasy balance, there will be a constant struggle for power."

"The people in Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Rumania closely follow the struggle in the Kremlin." The four RFE experts agreed. Touching on reaction in the satellite countries to the sputniks, they summed up the situation as follows:

"Recent reports from Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania and Bulgaria show that despite the Communist regime's boasting about the superiority of the Russian scientists, the people of the satellite states were not too impressed."

"At first they may have been somewhat gloomy, because they thought that sputnik might be an indication that the West was falling behind in an important field."

"But a balance was restored on a review of all the factors of the present situation. Radio Free Europe kept beaming information and news of the missiles and military strength and scientific achievements of the United States and the West."

"But the most significant reaction was this: the respect for or belief in the Communist regimes is not increasing. What people ask is, 'How can the sputniks give us more food and clothes and more freedom? What we want is more of the space here on earth.'"

With the Classics

Sweet was the sound, when oft at evening's close

Up yonder hill the village murmur rose:

There, as I passed with careless steps and slow,

The mingling notes came softened from below:

The swain responsive as the milk-maid sung,

The sober herdsman that loved to meet his young,

The noisy game that gabbled o'er the pool,

The playful children just let loose from school,

The watch-dog's voice that bayed the whispering wind,

And the loud laugh that spoke the vacant mind—

These all in sweet confusion sought the shade,

And filled each pause the nightingale had made.

Western Outlet

Realizing some time ago that Victoria was in sore need of a western outlet, I suggested to the mayor that such an outlet was necessary and that same could be created by carrying Esquimalt Road across the entrance of Esquimalt Harbor making junction with Belmont Road in vicinity of Port Road Hill either by high-level bridge or a tunnel. The latter I believe would be more suitable.

This route on a return trip to junction of Colwood Road and Langford Road to Victoria business centre would save some six miles out of the 14 to 16 miles by present routes. It would also be of great assistance to civil growing hazards at the roundabout, be a saving in operation of all car owners in the constituencies of Mr. McPhillips and Hon. G. R. Pearkes. The area in question comes under the administration of the department of national defence, which would more than any benefit in the operation of vehicles and saving in time carrying personnel and equipment to and from daily.

At the same time a tunnel would create employment on many levels and with the exception of steel plates could be constructed in our local shipyards and shops. In the event of the B.C. Agricultural Association establishing an exhibition grounds and race track at Colwood and the possibility of Victoria University securing a land grant in Esquimalt district, as well as the normal growth in that area, this shorter route will assure the success of these undertakings.

This Esquimalt project is a B.C. government matter, so would suggest that local organizations and voters inform our members of their approval of this project so that an appropriation can be put in the estimates to enable work to be undertaken at an early date.

In view of the saving to the department of national defence and the advantage to civil defence, the national government should make a contribution to this project.

Too Lenient

The suspended sentence meted out in the cat cruelty case has aroused feelings of indignation in the minds of decent people and many calls have been received from the public regarding this verdict.

The reason given for lack of punishment was the man's age and "previous good character." This man stated he had always killed his cats in this cruel manner, consequently it is difficult to visualize "previous good character." After admitting to past cruelties, it would seem high time that a punishment to fit the crime was meted out and is obviously long overdue.

Inadequate Coverage

British Columbia has no doubt the best hospital system in Canada mainly because it is supported by people who can afford to pay, but nevertheless it is far from being perfect because it lacks medical service which is the most costly item sick or ailing people have to contend with.

Here in Canada there are thousands of ailing people who can't afford medical services, yet they will continue to suffer even though the national health system is set up, because it doesn't include medical service either.

People coming here from Great Britain, a country that has probably the best health system in the world, must wonder what our governments do with all the taxes they collect when they see our antiquated health systems, or the one we propose to adopt.

If British Columbia can have such good hospital service for a 5 per cent sales tax surely the very least the federal government could do in setting up a national health system would be to supply sufficient funds so that medical service could be included and made available to all regardless of their financial condition.

Then we would have a health system that we could be proud of and more in line with the resources of our country than the one we propose to adopt.

Dignified, Homelike

It has I am sure been a great relief to many of us to see the picture of the dignified yet homelike building which is to be Government House. Those of us who prefer a house to those Heath Robinson design hen coops which unfortunately so often disfigure the landscape are relieved to think such is not to be inflicted on the public.

As your correspondent Alan Greig says, the design is in keeping with Victoria and will fit well into the setting. I hope the conservative and comfortable looking design will be allowed to go through. Modern freakish dwellings may be a shelter but can never be a home. Stark outlandish designs and violent colors not only offend the eye, they affect the health and nerves too.

Hefty Pay Demands...

Teachers May Boost Taxes

Greater Victoria municipal leaders were dismayed yesterday by a school teachers' salary-increase request that, if met in full, would add 3.14 mills (or about $12 for an average home) to district tax rates in 1958.

The 687 members of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association asked the school board for an increase in the basic salary scale which T. L. Christie, board secretary, said amounted to 17,937 per cent or an additional cost of $553,355.

Sooke district teachers, it was announced at the same time, have asked for a salary-increase of 16 per cent.

Chairman of the Greater Victoria board, W. H. Golby, described the Victoria request as staggering.

"Where Will It End?"

Greater Victoria municipal leaders, although unwilling to discuss the merits of the teachers' claim to higher salaries, were worried about the possible impact on tax rates.

"While I am not acquainted with all the facts regarding school teachers' salaries," said Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich, "perhaps what is more important is the question, where is it all going to end?"

"Certainly municipalities cannot be expected to keep their tax-rates down and at the same time meet these increased salaries and the increased costs of all the other municipal services and works."

"What about the pressing public works such as we have in Saanich? Are these to be cast aside?"

Three-Way Parley

Reeve Ash saw in the salary requests "another reason for a federal provincial municipal conference" on sharing of revenues and responsibilities.

"Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said he would not object to municipal representation at the federal-provincial conference, and I think the premier should have officers of the Union of B.C. Municipalities go to the conference," he said.

Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay observed that if the teachers' request were met in full, school costs to the municipalities would be increased by between 20 and 25 per cent, which would be "completely impossible."

With municipal school costs rising as they were, he said, "the provincial government will have to do something."

Scurrah Concerned

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said that if as he had understood, teachers' salaries in Greater Victoria were "normal" this year, "with the economy as it is, any increase ought to be tied to the cost of living."

Mayor Percy Scurrell did not want to comment on the teachers' request; but appeared concerned.

The salary request was part of a six-point program presented to the school board finance committee Monday by teachers' bargaining representatives. The board and the association have until Feb. 14 to arrive at a settlement.

The other five requests were for slight changes in two contract clauses, institution of Medical Services Association coverage until the Public Schools Act allowed school boards to contribute to a medical service plan.

Other requests, however, will be discussed by the finance committee and association representatives at a meeting Nov. 20 at 8 p.m.

Sixty Categories

Teachers' salaries in Greater Victoria district now range from $2,250 through nearly 60 steps and categories to $6,420 in the regular schedule, and principals receive up to $9,865.

The increases requested by the teachers would vary widely in individual categories—the school board secretary picked examples ranging up to 29.64 per cent—but the total increase over the present scale would be a fraction less than 18 per cent.

Mr. Golby emphasized that a good relationship existed between the teachers and the board.

"The trustees' association, the local board and everyone associated with education have been working to raise the teachers' standard," he said, "and we accept the fact that this will entail increases in salaries."

"But the requests this year, I would say, were a little staggering."

The salary increase asked by

Sooke teachers would amount to a mill-rate increase of 2.6 mills, according to John Williams, the Sooke board chairman.

... 'Stagger' Authorities

This followed a 10 per cent increase granted last year which caused the board to delete the equivalent of two mills expenditure on school maintenance from the budget, Mr. Williams said.

Not a Cure-All present serious shortage of qualified teachers in the province and the need to attract more of our brighter students into the teaching profession," he said. "However, we are not convinced that continuous substantial salary increases are the cure-all for this problem.

"The board had previously agreed that they would consider reasonable salary increases for our teachers, with whom we have the most cordial relations, but we were totally unprepared to consider increases amounting to more than $1,000 in certain categories, which would put some of our teachers in the $9,000 bracket.

"Little hope of substantial salary increases is seen until the department of education increases its salary grant formula..."

Help for Blind, Deaf, Lame

WASHINGTON (UP)—Protestant leaders have taken the first important step to overcome long neglect by local churches in meeting spiritual needs of handicapped persons.

Jesus Christ in his early ministry displayed a special concern for the blind, deaf, crippled and mentally disturbed.

But Protestant leaders have then hesitated to take the same long been aware that most local churches were not meeting their Lord's example. The first important step toward remedying this situation was taken last month.

Representatives of major denominations met at Green Lake, Wis., under the auspices of the National Council of Churches, and agreed to work together "to arouse churches to suitable Christian educational programs for all types of handicapped persons.

There are several million people who suffer from mental or physical handicaps which make it difficult or impossible for them to participate in regular church programs. A comparatively few churches already provide special worship services and religious education for them.

Here are some other specific suggestions for local churches:

—Remember that handicapped persons want to be useful; make it possible for them to do volunteer jobs such as telephone banking, stuffing envelopes.

—Eliminate steps, slippery floors and heavy doors that make it difficult for crippled persons to get into a church building.

—Provide pastoral counseling for the families of handicapped persons to help them understand and accept their limitations.

Although special classes are necessary in some cases it is highly desirable that exceptional persons be brought into the regular church program insofar as their handicaps will permit.

Through Missionaries

Africa to Speak

MISS EVELYN RUPERT

Two Christian missionaries from Africa will speak Tuesday at Free Methodist Church, Cook and Balmoral.

Miss Evelyn Rupert, educational missionary to Ruanda, Urundi, Belgian Congo, will talk at 2:30 and 7 p.m. She will be followed at the evening meeting by Rev. Emanuel Wegmuller, an evangelistic missionary in the same area of Africa for 12 years.

Mr. Wegmuller's most recent work has been supervision of the Nyankanda-Lepor Colony, where 1,000 lepers live.

Miss Rupert was principal for a Normal School at Kivimba for 14 months, and previously a teacher and director at a primary school at Kibuye.

The talks will be illustrated.

In City Churches Sunday

Dead Warriors To Be Honored

Remembrance Day will be observed at several morning services in Victoria churches Sunday.

"Sacrifice and Gratitude" will be the title of Rev. G. R. Easter's sermon at the morning service at First Baptist Church. "Flanders Fields" will be sung by A. Jackman.

In the evening, Rev. Easter will speak on the fifth commandment, "The Glory of Truth" and the Moody film, "Red River of Life," will be shown.

At the Remembrance Day service at Centennial United Church at 11 a.m., Rev. Douglas Carr will speak on "The Sound of the Trumpet."

In the evening, he will speak on "The Fear of Sickness," the sixth in the series "Overcoming our Fears."

Rev. J. L. W. McLean will preach on "By Way of Remembrance" at the morning service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

In the evening, he will speak on "Who is a Christian?" as the last in a series of "Questions — and the Answers."

Men at the 31st (Alberta) Regiment will attend the 7:30 p.m. service at St. John's Anglican Church Sunday. Topic of the address by Canon George Biddle will be "Stand To."

At First United Church, Rev. A. L. Higgins will preach on the topic, "We Are Debtors," at the morning service. Padre Ivan R. Edwards, Pacific Command Chaplain (P) Navy, will assist in the service.

A "Prairie Friendship Night" for those from the prairie provinces, will be held following evening services in Fellowship Hall, 334 Balmoral.

Brig. and Mrs. Carl Hiltz, divisional commanders for British Columbia of the Salvation Army, will conduct services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in Esquimalt Citadel. They also speak at 8 p.m. tonight in the Harbor Lights Corps, 550 Yates.

Annual church parade of Optimists, Opti-Mrs. and junior Optimists will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow to the Church of St. Saviour, Victoria West. Rev. Douglas Kendall and Capt. "Red" Ramsdale will conduct the service.

Council Reluctant

Orphanage Loses Tax Exemption

Finance committee of city council voted reluctantly Thursday against continuing partial tax exemption for the B.C. Protestant Orphanage.

"I'm very much afraid we might be letting ourselves in for something," said Ald. Austin Curtis, explaining that granting an exemption to the orphanage might be regarded as a precedent by other institutions.

Mayor Percy Scourrah and Ald. Arthur Dowell agreed, but all three expressed regret.

The old Municipal Act provided for the partial exemption, but the new one stipulates that exemptions may be given to institutions of this type only if they care for orphans or destitute children exclusively.

"We know they are not all destitute children at the orphanage," Ald. Curtis observed.

Visitation Nov. 17

Christ Church Cathedral's annual "Every Member Visitation" will be conducted on the afternoon of Nov. 17.

Some 200 members of the congregation will make friendly visits to the 1,300 families in the parish.

Bent Helicopter

Experimental, rocket-powered, one-man "Pinwheel" helicopter crashed at Van Nuys, Calif., airport. The craft was strapped to the back of test pilot Richard Whitehead Jr., whose own legs were to act as landing gear. Whitehead suffered a probable leg fracture and a possible broken left ankle.

Trans-Canada Air Lines announced a raise in rates from here to Vancouver and Seattle and elimination of the discounts on return tickets.

The new rates go into effect Jan. 1.

for a one-way ticket to Vancouver, up 40 cents. A round-trip ticket after Jan. 1 will be $10. It is now $8.30.

The current $5 one-way runs to Seattle will cost $6. Round trips will go from $9.50 to $12.

Wallace Courtney, TCA manager for the Pacific Northwest, provided "a more realistic figure... we fought it off for as long as we could, but the coastal service has been lower than the rest of the system and we are bringing it into line."

The very fact that the Victoria-Vancouver and Victoria-

Seattle routes are "volume runs" shoots up operating costs, as the large number of passengers necessitates more planes and crews, he said.

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce, before commenting, is going to refer the rate boost to the aviation committee. Publicly chairman George I. Warren planned to take some time to study the increase, "and if it isn't justified, I'll explode."

A. W. Toone, secretary of the Victoria Labor Council, said he thought the increase "doesn't seem consistent with the great volume of business... I would have expected the rates to go down."

"It throws a hardship on a lot of people who have come to gear their activities with the plane service available at the present cost," he said.

Mr. Courtney said first-class, one-way flights to Toronto that now are $160.30 will be $155. One-way to Winnipeg now is $94.55 and will be $92. To Halifax, it is $222.85 and will be $216.

Some first-class and tourist round trip tickets, present and future, from Victoria, are:

Halifax—tourist, $366 now; $316 Jan. 1; first class, $401.10 now, $410 then; Toronto—tourist, $264.30 now, $230 then; first class, $288.55 now, $295 then; Winnipeg—tourist, $152.30 now, $132 then; first class, $170.20 now, $175 then.

The Little Mouse

Raul Macias, called Raton, the Little Mouse, was fighting in O'Malley Field, Los Angeles, and the town was swarming with Mexicans. In Los Angeles the sight of a swarthy complexion seldom occasions astonishment, for Mexicans in permanent resi-as Martians and Dodgers, but yesterday there were so many visitors from below the border that even the wire services noted the fact.

By train and plane and bus and jalopy, the countrymen of Macias had come north in hordes to see the Little Mouse fight Alphonse Halimi, the French-Algerian out of Constantine, in a match calculated to clear title to the bantamweight championship of the world. The National Boxing Association and Mexico have recognized Macias as champion, on clear days, and Halimi has enjoyed the benediction of New York and the World Boxing Federation.

If the influx of Macias' partisans caused commotion at the box office, it stirred no surprise in the lauded boxer of George Parnassus, the jaunty little Greek who owns and operates the Little Mouse. The last time Parnassus felt real surprise was the morning he woke up to find himself a fight manager, a peace-loving proprietor of a lunch counter, he had fed so many fighters on the cuff that he had to take them over in self defence.

Since then things have happened to him. As a specialist in handling battlers of Mexican origin, he has achieved some understanding of the Latin temperament, and what was left of his capacity for amazement was used up as long ago as March, 1956.

Cathode Death-Ray

On that occasion, The Mouse was matched with Leo Espinosa, then bantamweight champion of the Philippines, in the Plaza de Mexico, the big Mexico City bull ring which seats 60,000 spectators in el sol y el sombra.

Parnassus was not aware of his boy's popularity in the home town. Macias had begun fighting there at 19, had won the Mexican championship in his fifth professional bout, and the North American title with a decision over Nate Brooks in his tenth. His eleventh fight was his first outside Mexico City. In San Francisco he won the NBA world title by stiffening Chamrerng Songkritrat in 11 rounds, and returned home as a national hero.

Nevertheless, Parnassus knew what television could do to box office. When the question was raised about televising the Espinosa match, he took a firm stand.

"Absolutely not! Too many fights die from television. We're going to have customers in the bull ring, paying customers with pesos I can count."

Peons Without Pesos

Several hours later there came a call from a Mexico City newspaper. "George, I've got news for you. The fight is on television."

"Who says so?" Parnassus asked.

"The government of Mexico."

"Oh," George said.

That night it was a page one story in every paper: "Macias-Espinosa fight to be televised." The government had spoken, and not only to the promoter. Authorities had further ordered that receiving sets be put up in all the principal plazas of the capital and its environs to enable peons without pesos to watch their hero.

This was four days before the match and not a seat had been sold, for tickets to a fight in Plaza de Mexico don't go on sale until the last three days. The matchmaker, Miguel de Collina, who had given his word that there would be no TV, nift in protest. In the pit in Parnassus' storch was a leaden feeling that he hadn't experienced since he stopped eating in his own lunch room.

"Next day," George says, "the ticket sale opened at 8 a.m. By six that evening 50,000 were sold—and that was all we had printed. The fight drew $84,000 American, and Macias won by a knockout in the tenth round."

Incidentally, there was no television sponsor and there were no commercials between rounds.

"Nobody," Parnassus says, "got a cent out of TV, nobody sold razor blades or Carta Blanca beer, there was no payoff to the fighters or the promoter or even the government. They just said, 'You televise.' We did."

In the first game of the twin bill, Jack McKay scored 21 points and Wayne Farmer added 13 as Oak Bay trounced Mount View, 57-36, for its second victory.

View Holloa! Fox-Hunting Goes Democratic

By GREGORY JENSEN LONDON (NANA) — For sportsmen casting about for new worlds to conquer, a brand new field is wide open here: fox hunting, the most democratic "aristocratic" sport in the world.

From now until April, literally thousands of fox hunts in the British Isles will accept you—rich or poor, whether you can ride or not—as a member of the groups which go pelting across some of the loveliest countryside anywhere, following the music of the hounds and the huntsman's horn in pursuit of the wily fox.

For fox hunting has gone democratic. Once it was the rigid province of the wealthy and privileged. As a symbol of elegance and gracious living the fox hunt had no peer. But today, anyone can join one of the hundreds of established fox-hunts in the British Isles for as little as $4.20 per day.

The secret lies in the fact that fox hunting is not exclusively the way it traditionally is pictured. Along with the traditional red-coated riders, hunters now follow the hounds on foot.

The main elements of the 250-year-old sport remain: a pack of 20 to 30 hounds; a red-coated master of the hunt with his two assistants, the horn-blowing huntsman and the whipper-in, who has charge of the pack; aristocratic sportsmen impeccably dressed and mounted on sleek, highly trained horses.

But today as many people follow the hunt on foot as on horseback.

You can, of course, do it the traditional way if you ride well enough to take fences,

Prop-Driven Scooter

Latest fad for water-sports lover is the "water-mobil," called world's smallest motorboat. Now on exhibition by West Berlin boatbuilder Guenther Lepel, boat is light and small enough to be carried on top of family car. It is two-seater, electric-start equipped and boasts a built-in radio. Motive power is supplied by two-stroke engine which develops speed of 18 mph. Boat is priced at $475 and will be exported to North America next year.

Hucul Gets Three As Canucks Beaten

VANCOUVER — Big Fred Hucul didn't score any stylish goals here Friday night but there was nothing wrong with his quantity.

The former defenceman, now playing regularly on a wing, got the puck behind Marcel Pelletier three times as Calgary Stampers ended the Canucks' unbeaten streak at nine games with a 5-3 win. Two of Hucul's goals came in the last 80 seconds and broke a 3-3 tie. They were his ninth and 10th of the season.

UNLUCKY

Canucks probably deserved a better fate on the night's play. They held a wide territorial edge in the first two periods but started the third on the short end of a 3-2 score. They pulled even, only to be beaten by Hucul's rather fortunate shooting.

Hucul's winning goal was hotly-disputed by the Canucks, who claimed that Dusty Blair had pushed the puck ahead with his hand before Hucul shot it into the net.

Fans littered the ice with programs in protest and the Canucks stormed around referee Al Paradise but the goal stood. It came at 18:10. Sixty-nine seconds later, with Canucks using six attackers, Hucul's shot on the open net was deflected in the right direction by Phil Maloney and it was all over. Hucul's first goal, which put Stampers ahead by 3-2, was a shot from the corner which deflected in off Pelletier.

It was the first time this season that Pelletier had allowed more than three goals. He gave up but one in his previous three games.

Sid Finney and Barry Ross scored the other Calgary goals while rookie Jim Povey and Red Johnsen counted for Canucks.

Result moved Stampers into a second-place tie in the Eastern Division of the Western Hockey League and shortened Canucks' lead over New Westminster in the Western Division to three points.

Cougars Stand Pat Tonight—Seattle Now Primary Target

Victoria Cougars will go with the same lineup which ended their losing streak on Wednesday night when they take the ice at Memorial Arena tonight to face Seattle Americans.

"I'm not one to break up a Schmautz got what proved to be a promising line."

It was the third defeat for the Americans since Guyle Feilder rejoined them last Sunday. The record-breaking centerman was held to one assist for the third game in a row but he'll have to be watched tonight.

Soccer Managers Lead Fight Against No-Substitution Rule

By KEN METHKAL

LONDON (CP) — A feeling is growing in British soccer circles that the Football League is preparing to relax its traditional stand against use of substitutes.

A recommendation for some action in this direction is expected to be placed before the league's annual meeting next summer and already the league's 92 club managers are lining up to present their own proposals.

Latest to break into print is Ralph Carter, veteran manager of Leeds United and a former mainstay of England international sides. Carter believes soccer must follow the lead of Canadian football and hockey and allow unlimited substitution.

Carter says the fans are becoming "fed up" with watching games turn into one-sided affairs through injuries.

"The paying public wants a fair contest with 11 men against 11 men. The fans know and we know—that 10 men don't have a ghost of a chance against 11."

Already this season, Carter says, a score of games have ended with one club playing a man short. But this number is small compared to the number of games in which an injured player has hobbled about the field on a twisted ankle, unwilling to leave the game because of the no-substitution rule but unable to offer any real assistance to his team.

Carter has little patience with some of his fellow managers who advocate a rigid limit on substitutes. A solution often mooted is that a replacement should be allowed for a goal keeper at any time and for one other player up to halftime.

"What happens if we adopt limited replacement?" asks Carter. "Some or later a team will lose two men other than a goalkeeper. In fact, it happened this year that the team was silly because we still have 10 men facing 11."

Carter is the first to admit his plan has problems of its own. For one thing, clubs would be forced to dress more players for each game. More important, it would mean a break with the British concept that 11 men games are not only contests of skill but determination, robustness and endurance. The no-substitution rule also applies to English rugby and field hockey.

In cricket, an injured batsman may be replaced but not a batsman.

Even limiting substitutes to injured players would be no real solution. Who is to decide when the injury is sufficiently serious to permit substitution, and in any case it is too easy for a tired player to fake an injury," says Carter.

"Let's go the whole hog and say that any player can be replaced at any time. It's the only sensible and logical solution."

Bowling Roundup . . . By Jim Taylor

Fivepin Bowlers Get Better; Holness Again Tenpin Leader

The Victoria team of Steve Chamut, Jack Hobbs, Jack Fletcher, Dick Tripp and Len Holness picked up 34 of a possible 48 points at Gibson's Bowladrome last Sunday to move into second place in the Inter City Tenpin League.

Next games in the eight team league will be played in two weeks at Chemainus.

Most of Victoria's first-rate tenpin bowlers seem to be having trouble reaching the top scoring brackets in league play, but Bill Holness is still riling one of the hottest streaks of the season.

Holness, bowling in the mixed league at Gibson's Bowladrome, is breezing along with a 207 average for his last three weeks of league play. After rolling 636 and 650 in his previous two sessions, he "dropped" to 591 this week, but the score was still the best posted on city alleys.

Len Murrant, 580 (214), Wilbur Webb, 547 (21), and T. Lenton, 540 (201) followed Holness in the mixed league at Gibson's. Webb led the Friday mixed with 571 (239), followed by R. Lowe at 555 (236).

John Pickburn, 575 (205), 2117; Webb, 572 (203); George Gunina, 561 (203); N. Neely, 558 (203) and Tommy Nute, 545 (221) were the best of the commercial league punters, while Cec Dixon, 566 (21), Dave Williams, 556 (203), Herb Chandler, 555 (205), Bob Rydstedt, 554 (200), Wil Smith, 547 (211) and R. Bridger, 543, led the senior league.

At Strathcona Bowling Alley, Roy Begg topped the senior league with 557 (209). Other high scores in the league were George Molton, 541, Bob Byrds, 528 (208), Red Lawson, 528, and Ollie Corbett, 525.

In the Strathcona commercial league, Louie Elkes was high bowler with 557 and Ian McKeachie hit for 550. Les Oberg was high man in the Monday league at 528.

The A. Privalov and two colleagues sighted a "poorish object brighter than Venus" in the sky.

Astronomers who have been observing the passage of Sputnik II said the object is unlike anything they have ever seen.

OTTAWA (AP)—A bright, yellow light which hung motionless beneath the moon for half an hour was reported sighted by dozens of people here last night.

Little Hope for Success At Summit, Says Lloyd

He told the House of Commons there is nothing in Russia's deeds to suggest that such a meeting now could accomplish any purpose.

Rocket Nose Cone Came from 'Jupiter'

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UP) — The rocket nose cone displayed during President Eisenhower's televised speech Thursday night came from the Jupiter missile program, spokesmen at Redstone arsenal said yesterday.

The President said the cone had been far out in space and was recovered undamaged.

The recovery "demonstrated a technique by which a nose cone carrying a war head can be delivered on target and come down through the earth's atmosphere at terrific speed without disintegrating," an army spokesman at Redstone said.

The Jupiter can reach "extreme altitude" and cover a "considerable range," the spokesman added.

The army said it recovered the nose from the ocean in the firing last August, indicating they had accurate knowledge of where it would come down. The missile was fired from the test centre at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

By Harry Mace Voting Snarl Expected

No Foul-Up Here

In every B.C. municipality but Victoria city, a few would-be voters probably will find in the December municipal elections that they can't vote, through no fault of their own.

City Clerk Frank Hunter has pointed out that an omission from the new Municipal Act will prevent voters' list corrections being made on election day, in cases of persons whose names have been improperly left off the revised lists, and thus will prevent some people from voting.

In Victoria's private act passed by the legislature in 1951, a provision was included that authorizes the city clerk and city assessor to give a son authority to vote when his name has been improperly left off the revised list and he applies to vote on election day.

"Our provision worked so well here that in 1954 it was copied into the provincial Municipal Elections Act," Mr. Hunter said.

But it has been taken out of the new Municipal Act and persons in such circumstances now must appear in person on election day.

Persons who are eligible to vote and whose names have been left off the voters' list in its present preliminary form will have a chance to have their names placed on the list Nov. 20 in the city. A revision will be held that day at city hall.

So far, however, the apparent lack of interest in the forthcoming elections has surprised city officials. Only Mayor Percy Scurrell and three aldermen have said definitely they will seek re-election; Ald. J. Donald Smith, fourth alderman whose term will expire, has not made his plans known, and no "outsiders" have indicated they will enter the race.

The IGY stamp is to be issued in March, followed by the B.C. stamp in May.

Eight New Stamps Slated for 1958

OTTAWA (CP) — Eight new postage stamps are to be issued during 1958, the post office department announced yesterday.

Details of the stamps, being designed by Canadian artists, will be released progressively, the department said.

To be commemorated in the special issues are the press, the International Geophysical Year, British Columbia's Centenary, the Canadian Nurses Association's 50th anniversary, Quebec City's 350th anniversary, the explorations of La Verendrye, the centenary of the discovery of oil in Canada and the 200th anniversary of the first elected assembly in what now is Canada. The press stamp is scheduled to be issued Jan. 22 as the first of the eight.

"The periodicals published in Canada have earned a position of respect and influence," the department said. "A significant feature of the press industries of Canada is the progress of The Canadian Press, which recently celebrated 50 years as a co-operative news-gathering agency."

The IGY stamp is to be issued in March, followed by the B.C. stamp in May.

The M. H. Roffey trophy for the best plant grown by a novice went to Group Capt. W. E. Dipple of Salt Spring Island.

There were more than 50 entries and some of the blooms were bigger than soccer balls.

Christmas Presents

Annual drive to collect Christmas gifts for 4,000 patients in B.C. mental hospitals will be held in Victoria Nov. 17 to 23.

The Victoria branch of the B.C. Mental Health Association sponsors the drive to raise money and collect gifts to give to the patients at Christmas parties.

Donations may be left at Hawkes Real Estate, 612 View.

The gifts, tagged with the donor's name, are sorted by volunteers of the association at Esplanade and distributed from there to other provincial mental institutions.

Last year, the association here collected more than $100 and sent eight cartons of gifts. Dorothy Minckler, 2-1191, is the committee chairman this year.

U.K. Fires First Blast In Series

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced she exploded a nuclear weapon at a high altitude yesterday over the central Pacific.

The explosion heralded the start of a new series of British tests in the area of Christmas Island. Last May and June British nuclear scientists fired off three H-bombs in an opening series.

Friday's announcement followed by only a few hours British rejection of another Japanese request that she call off plans for new H-bomb tests in the Pacific. Japanese Ambassador Haruhiko Nishi then asked that Britain accept responsibility for any damage to Japanese lives and property which might result from the new tests.

The ministry of supply said indications are that radioactive fallout from yesterday's blast will be negligible.

Janitors' Minimum Boosted

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks has announced new minimum wage rates for janitors ranging from $11 to $68 a month.

The new order, effective Jan. 1, raises the minimum rates of pay for janitors in apartment blocks from a range of $39 to $197 a month, covering from 10 to 47 residential suites, to a range of $50 to $265 a month.

Janitors employed in other than apartment blocks will see their rates increased from 50 cents to 75 cents an hour.

The definition of janitor, which includes both men and women, has also been widened to include window-cleaners.

VANCOUVER (CP) — An appeal by the B.C. Electric Company against the city's assessment of $660,000 a year on its new headquarters building in downtown Vancouver was rejected Friday by a board of appeal. The board decided to hear application for minor reductions next week.

It Isn't The Heat...

KASSEL, Germany (UP) — Science has crept into the nursery, at least when it comes time for a diaper change at a children's hospital being built here.

Special hygrometers built into the baby's crib will sound an alarm and flash a red light in the nurses' room if too much humidity is registered.

Beer Parlor Sex Barrier On Way Out

CALGARY (CP) — The provincial cabinet will instruct the Alberta Liquor Control Board to prepare the regulations necessary for the establishment of mixed drinking in Calgary and Edmonton "without any undue delay whatever" Hon. F. C. Colborne, minister without portfolio, said Friday.

The decision is being taken following the Oct. 30 plebiscite in which both Calgary and Edmonton voted overwhelmingly in favor of men and women being allowed to drink beer in the same establishment.

The two cities were the only ones in Alberta where the privilege was not allowed. Calgary voted 49,339 for mixed drinking and 11,455 against.
